The Sum is a new project by benchmark Great Southern producer Castelli Estate. The winery has now cast its net further afield, namely to Margaret River, to offer this new tier of wines. Melding the elegance of the Great Southern with the power, punch and lift of Margaret River, this new range offers some of the best drinking in its price point.

The Sum Riesling 2013 ($17)

A steely and tightly-framed young Riesling showing admirable flavour intensity on its controlled and very long palate profile. There's a trace of citrus and light stone fruit on the nose with a palate that is carried by a fine precise acidity. Nice wine in the short term.

SCORE 89/100 CELLAR 3 years

The Sum rosé 2013 ($17)

Fragrant and highly-scented rosé style. Light bodied with a brilliant pink hue. Red fruits on the nose carry through to the palate. Crisp fine acid balances the subtle sweet fruit character. Ideal wine for spicy food.

SCORE 87/100 CELLAR Drink now

The Sum shiraz 2012 ($17)

A solid value-for-money shiraz. Delivers with ripe savoury influences on the nose and the palate. A little spice and sprinkle of pepper and some rich fruitcake-like dark plum characters all add to the complexity and appeal of an eminently drinkable wine. Soft and supple with a lick of licorice and chocolate on the finish.
